

THE HERALD.

TROY, MO., MAY 28, 1873.

St. Louis is to have another paper—the "Tribune." The capital stock is $100,000.

A part of the Adocs have surrendered to the troops, but Capt. Jack has vanished.

The little state of Delaware still clings to the pillory and the whipping post in punishing crime.

The remains of Gen. Canby arrived at Indianapolis on the 22d, and were interred on the following day.

The St. Charles Cosmos says letters from different parts of the county report the early corn rotting and being generally plowed up for another planting.

In a couple of weeks Grant will commence his summer ramblings, and puff the smoke of his free duty Havannas at the different places of pleasureable resort all over the country—except the South.

The McKenry militia of Louisiana have promptly surrendered to the Federal troops, an indication that they have no desire to resist the national government—only the petty despotism of the Kellogg dynasty.

Gen. McKenzie had a fight with the Kickapoo Indians in Kinzie county, Texas, capturing nineteen warriors, about a hundred horses and other property. This band has been committing many depredations and murders in that section.

The Mexico Leader, which is just one year old, says: It would be very agreeable to the editor if some of his friends would celebrate the first anniversary of its happy career, by remitting money enough to have his old shoes half-soled.

President Grant has issued a proclamation ordering the people of Louisiana who have been opposing his pet Kellogg's despotism to disperse within twenty days. If they don't do so, he promises them warm times.

Two scape-graces, by the names of M. B. Jackson of Peoria, Ill., and A. J. Washburn of Ravenna, Ohio, have been swindling the farmers of Audrain county by selling bogus "patent" rights. Our farmers should be careful how they deal with travelling agents, and buy their implements from home dealers.

Chief Justice Chase was in comfortable circumstances financially at the time of his death. His will has been admitted to probate, and gives $10,000 each to Wilberforce university and Dartmouth college. Interest on $60,000 to his niece, Jane Auld, and the remainder of his estate, valued at $150,000, in equal parts to his two daughters.

Grant has never yet said whether he will take the extra $100,000 voted him by the back pay grabbers to secure his signature to the bill, and some of the papers are concerned on account of his reticence, and wish to know if he has decided to take it. How foolish to ask such a question. Was he ever guilty of refusing anything that was offered him?

It is reported that the Kansas murderers, the Benders, have been arrested in Dennison county Texas. If this be the case, Miss Bender, who advertised to "reveal the future" to those who desired, and who did so in such a manner that her patrons have never returned from its undiscovered country, will probably have its unknown mystery more fully revealed to herself.

President Grant it is said will risk all personal and party considerations in appointing a successor to Chief Justice Chase, and select a man that will be acceptable to the whole country. He will look to the newspapers to find the man. He will have to do more reading than he has the reputation of doing if he thoroughly digests all the articles that this bit of news will give birth to.

WEST POINT CADETSHIP.—Prof. H. M. Hamill has been selected by Hon. A. H. Buckner as member of the committee to examine applicants for appointment to the cadetship from the 13th congressional district. * * * Any information or assistance Prof. Hamill can give to young gentlemen of Audrain who desire to make the trial on the 10th, will be cheerfully rendered.—Mexico Leader.

Prof. Hamill has been selected by Hon. Mr. Buckner as one of the examiners of the applicants for the West Point Cadetship. He will be glad to have any of our Audrain boys, who purpose to contend for the appointment, confer with him, and he will give them all the information and assistance in his power.—Messenger.

If that be the game, we suggest that Judge Buckner appoint another examiner from that county. He is acting outside the bounds of propriety, to say the least. If he is allowed to remain on the examining committee, pursuing the course the Leader and Messenger say he is, Audrain will be very likely to get the appointment.

A Virginia, Nevada, telegram of the 22d says fears are entertained of a general Indian outbreak. The Snake and Shoshone have held a council, had war dances, and notified settlers about Spencer Mountain, Northern Nevada, to leave, or they would lose their scalps.

The grasshoppers are eating up vegetation in Texas, and it is thought when they finish up there they will start for Missouri, Illinois, Kansas and Nebraska. As the fellow said when it was remarked to him that the rust was eating a large piece of iron machinery, "If it eats all that, it must have a ternal good appetite."

Where, oh, where are the Modoc braves? They have scattered, it is said, and taken refuge among the different tribes of the far West. This little piece of strategy will render the extermination policy somewhat difficult, and still shows their ability to take care of themselves.

The Missouri Republican seldom indulges in witticisms, and the following leads one to believe that it knows more about "kards," and especially "old sledge," than many of our strict church-goers would consider consistent with morality:

The latest news from the Modoc country is that the troops are looking high and low for their game, with little prospect of turning up Jack. Beg.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.—A convention of Missouri granges was held at Knob Noster last week, and closed on the 23d. A permanent organization for the state has been harmoniously effected. About 260 granges in the state were represented. Col. D. Wyatt Aiken of South Carolina, Gen. William Duane Wilson and Hon. Dudley W. Adams of Iowa, Norman J. Colman and other distinguished gentlemen were present. About one thousand people were present. The officers elect for the ensuing year are: T. R. Allen, master; Bennett Clark, overseer; John M. Oldborn, lecturer; Jesse Alexander, steward; A. Grigsby, assistant; T. Bratton, chaplain; C. T. Quisenberry, treasurer; H. B. Coffey, Secretary, and Messrs. W. M. Price, J. F. Stewart, J. Whitmore, D. Webster and F. Latham, executive committee. It is regarded by the farming interests of the state as one of the most important conventions ever held within her borders, says the Republican's telegram.

STATUE OF STONEWALL JACKSON.—During the war a number of English gentlemen who sympathized with the Southern cause united in the effort to procure a suitable memorial of the great Virginia soldier who fell at Chancellorsville. Several distinguished persons, among them Hon. Beresford Hope, P. M., and Mr. Gregory, now governor-general of Ceylon, interested themselves earnestly in the movement, and in a very short time a sufficient fund was raised, and the order was given an artist, Mr. Foley, who was chosen, is probably the first of living English sculptors, and those who have opportunities of determining the basis on which his reputation rests, express their belief that this work will be of the highest order of art.

The statue is of bronze, of heroic size, and represents the hero as standing in a favorite attitude of absorbing thought. The work was completed some time since, but owing to circumstances which can be better understood than expressed, the donors have postponed its shipment to this country. Lately, however, Mr. Hope has written to a Virginia officer who was the intimate comrade of Gen. Jackson, asking his advice as to the best disposition to be made of the statue, and the recipient of this communication has consulted with other Confederate officers. As yet, no determination has been arrived at; but it cannot be long before the site will be chosen, and some favored spot of Virginia's soil be consecrated by an enduring monument to one whose genius and heroism illustrated in life and death and all the highest virtues of the race from which he sprang.

The San Francisco Commercial Herald gives an item showing the effect of one of the tariff enactments upon the agricultural interests. All the wheat exported from California is shipped in bags, and there is now on the way from Europe to San Francisco three and a half million bags to carry off the product of 1873, and the total importation for this year is estimated at five and a half million. The tariff and extra profit demanded on account of duty will enhance the cost of these bags by $1,200,000, which as the bags do not remain in the country—in most cases barely leave the ship to be filled with grain, and are then returned to the ship on which they were imported—represents the amount taken from the farmers for the wise purpose of supporting officials.

The directors of the St. Louis fair association have determined to establish at the fair grounds during the two weeks of their annual fair, a general stock market where all kinds of stock can be obtained, either at public or private sale or exchange. This is an entirely new feature and will doubtless prove to be very popular with the farmers and stock dealers of this state.

The 17th of June next will be the two hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Mississippi river by Marquette, and it is proposed to revive the half forgotten memories of the discovery by a celebration at St. Louis, and other parts of the stream.

Somebody down in Texas thought Rev. G. W. Parsons was a turkey and killed him.

The Jefferson City Tribune reports the wheat prospect good, and estimates that a good crop will be worth $300,000 to Cole county.

A little daughter of Mr. Len T. Gray was accidentally killed, a few days ago, at her father's residence in Platte county, by falling down stairs.

The court before which George Francis Train was tried have decided that he is insane, and ordered that he be sent to the State Lunatic Asylum.

The Louisiana Press says Max Martinique of Troy has located in our city for the purpose of rendering some assistance in the development of the musical talents of our boys and young men.

Mrs. Carl Seburz, wife of the distinguished Senator, has become heir to a legacy of 250,000 Prussian thalers, or about $170,000, by the decease of her uncle, lately a resident of Hamburg, Germany.

An indictment for murder in the first degree was found against Dr. Jourdon, who poisoned Mr. Kirtley, by the grand jury of Pike county at the recent special term of the circuit court of that county. The trial will take place in September.

Judge James Stark died yesterday at his home seven miles from this city, on the Prairieville road, at the advanced age of 81 years. He has been a resident of Calumet township, Pike county, for 57 years, and has lived on the farm where he died 52 years.—Louisiana Press.

Grant has removed Gen. van Buren as head Commissioner of the Vienna Exposition, on the ground that he had used the position to make money. Since then the battle has raged. Gen. Van Buren has fired the last shot in a card denying everything, and denouncing his accusers as "cowards and liars." Gen. Van Buren is now evidently "going in."

The latest story of a brave though childlike form, faithful at the post of duty, comes from Ohio. He was the son of a village reporter, and having discovered a broken rail on the road just out of town, sat for five hours on a fence near by waiting for the train, so that he might carry the particulars of the accident to his father. Such devotion to the paternal interest is very affecting.

It is estimated that one tenth of the entire population of the United States is dependent for support upon the production and manufacture of iron. The value of the metal annually manufactured is $90,000,000, and 94,000 workmen are employed in the industry, the aggregate of whose wages reach 60,000,000.

The weeping willow has a romantic history. The first scion was sent from Syria, in a box of figs, to Alexander Pope. General Clinton brought a shoot, from Pope's tree to America, in the time of the Revolution, which, passing into the hands of John Parke Curtis, planting on his estate in Virginia, thus becoming the progenitor of the weeping willow in this country.

An old gentleman named Worthington was killed while plowing in his field near Ashley, Pike county, recently. He failed to come home at the usual time, and his wife becoming alarmed went in search of him. She found him lying in front of his plow, dead, and it is supposed that he was trampled to death by his horses as they seemed to be entangled, and there were a number of bruises on the body of the deceased.

Mrs. Earihart, an old woman, wrinkled gray and ugly, has been arrested at Germantown, O., for a stunning catalogue of crimes. It is charged that during the last twenty years she has poisoned her father, two of her children, her son's wife and two of his children. Scientific experts are to go to work right away on the exhumed bodies of all these mouldering victims, and in the meantime the authorities will take testimony on the charge that she burned her uncle's barn about five years ago.

John R. Thompson, Esq., one of America's sweetest poets, died in New York city a few days ago, where he had been engaged on the Evening News, as literary editor. Mr. Thompson's poetry was mostly southern in sentiment, but he wrote many gems that will live in the hearts of all. He had long been afflicted with consumption, under which he gradually gave way and of which he died. Into that land where life is one sweet poem, he has passed forever.—Columbia Herald.

The women of Massachusetts have petitioned the Legislature of that state to pass a law permitting men to marry as many wives as they please. There are so many more women than men in Massachusetts that the proportion of maiden ladies is getting so large as to be alarming, hence this petition. They had better "go west." There are lots of fellows out here who can't even get one wife.—Montgomery Standard.

We advise Bryan to go East.

A correspondent of the London Times shows, by reference to the agricultural returns from the United Kingdom, that the acreage of land in cereals is much less than last year, and that the bad condition of the ground from excessive rains threatens a short crop. He estimates that more than one half of the grain needed for consumption in the kingdom must come from foreign sources. It is "an ill-wind that blows nobody good," and while we may properly sympathize with the people of England on the prospect of a scarcity of breadstuffs, yet rejoice that we have enough and to spare, and can give them millions of bushels wherewith to feed themselves, the only effect upon us being that we will be the richer for the export.

Dr. J. S. Linn.
[From the Clarksville Sentinel.]
The members of the medical faculty are again called to mourn the loss of one of their number.

The announcement of the death of Dr. J. S. Linn will be received with one universal expression of surprise and regret by his large circle of friends. He died from apoplexy, at his residence in New Hope, Lincoln county, Mo., on the 6th inst., after an illness of but a few hours.

He was born in Pike county, Mo., Feb. 5th, 1832, received his professional education at the St. Louis Medical College, graduating Feb. 28th, 1857.

He located in New Hope, at which place, and at Paynesville, he continued to practice his profession until the time of his death. Dr. Linn had established an enviable reputation as a practitioner. Always solicitous for the welfare of his patients, he entered upon the duties of his profession with an energy and zeal equalled only by his philanthropic love for his fellow man.

As a diagnostician he had few equals; in perception he was very acute; in reasoning very logical. He was a zealous champion of the rights of our noble profession, and was ever ready to extend the hand of fellowship to all worthy members of the faculty. As a preceptor he had a just appreciation of the responsibility of his position. He considered it no less his duty than his pleasure to cheerfully assist his students to discriminate between the important truths of modern medicine and the gross errors of a half century past.

Whatever success may attend the professional career of the writer, he will always feel a consciousness that he owes that success largely to the earnest interest in his behalf, exhibited by his preceptor. It will ever be his pleasure to associate his fondest recollections and most heartfelt gratitude with the memory of Dr. Linn. He possessed a versatility of talent which rendered him the idol of the social circle, and will contribute in no small degree to embalm his memory in the hearts of his friends. I feel sure that I express the universal sentiment of my professional brethren of the counties of Pike and Lincoln when I say that I deeply deplore the loss of our dear friend and co-laborer, and feel sure that mine is but a feeble expression of sympathy offered to the bereaved family of the deceased, compared with that which spontaneously wells up from the hearts of the communities in which he lived. With one accord they yield to the deep sorrow which pierces their hearts as night else could, and one universal fervent prayer ascends, that He who tempers the winds to the shorn lamb, may tenderly deal with the sorrow stricken hearts of that husbandless and fatherless family.

Gov. Woodson Abroad.
The St. Louis Times says: It would be surprising, indeed, if after enduring a two or three months' siege from an army of clamorous office seekers, Governor Woodson should have emerged into smooth water again without having displeased certain interests and created vindictive enemies in certain quarters. It was impossible that he should have pleased everybody in making his appointments, and it is quite natural that the disappointed ones should feel sore and spiteful at being left out in the cold; but as we had occasion to remark a day or two ago, we are confident that no executive ever attempted to deal more fairly by his constituents, or sought more carefully to keep the public good uppermost in his mind. That his course is generally approved at home is plainly evident, and that he has won for himself and the state a creditable reputation abroad, is apparent from the following article, published in a late issue of the Vicksburg Herald:

"The amount of confidence entertained by all parties which the Governor of a state can infuse into the spirits of the people, is fully illustrated in the present governor of Missouri. An executive officer who, in the discharge of his important and delicate duties, can never rise above the exacting demands and caprice of party is not to be trusted, and ought never to be elected to any official position. The state administration of Governor Woodson, succeeding the conservative and wise policy of Governor B. Gratz Brown, has placed Missouri to day as a law-abiding, peaceful and prosperous state—in a better position than any other state in the Union; and yet the word disloyalty to the Government against either of the governors named is never heard. A gentleman remarked to us yesterday that he preferred Missouri to any other state, because it had the most legal and satisfactory government in the United States. There is truth in the observation. Missouri has an impartial executive, himself a lawyer, and a brilliant one; once a judge, both able and just, and he knows how to administer the laws of the state with justice to all persons and parties without reference to their respective political tenets; for the position he now occupies is, while executive, of a quasi judicial character. He has been trained and cultured in the right school; he has studied government from the beautiful and elementary principles found in the fundamental laws of the country. We congratulate Missouri upon the enviable reputation she has won, and the fine state government she enjoys."

Eight thousand mail bags of public documents have been sent from the folding room of the House of representatives since March 4.

A fashionable young lady of Philadelphia dropped one of her false eyebrows in a church pew, and badly frightened a young man next to her, who thought it was his mustache.

Mr. P. P. Ellis, of New Florence, G. W. C. T. of Missouri, will start for London, England, about the last of next month, to attend the Right Worthy Grand Lodge of Good Templars.—Montgomery City Standard.

"SWEEPSTAKES"
Thrashing Machine.
C. Aultman & Co. J. E. Hayer & Co.
Manufacturers, Gen'l Agents,
Canton, Ohio. St. Louis, Mo.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Thrashing Machine family, and its SUPERIOR STRENGTH, durability, simplicity of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain fit for market, faster and better than any other, are acknowledged.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thrasher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, last much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmer gives it the preference and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans for market, without waste, saves 10 to 15 bushels per acre, and does the most speed, safety, and economy, and does not keep a gang of men and teams about it on expense.

A written Warranty delivered with every machine.

The "Sweepstakes" is usually a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should ORDER EARLY.

Separators, Horse Power, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately when desired.

Call or send and get a Pamphlet Circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with prices, etc., etc.

Correspondence invited from all those who anticipate buying a thrasher or any of its parts.

NURSERY.

Brother Farmers, don't forget that our Eastern neighbors are feeding apples to stock with good results, while we have only a scanty supply for family use.

Also, that Eastern farmers have their barrels of cider and an abundance of the best of apple vinegar, and here either is a rarity with the majority of families.

And yet we meet all our wants more land than is profitable, and have often an abundance of waste and worn out lands that could be made profitable if set in trees, besides improving the condition of the land.

Being overstocked with winter fruits, especially of Jonneting and New York Red Pippin, or Ben Davis, I will sell this spring by the thousand at $75.00; by the 500 at $45.00. Price by dozen and 100 same as heretofore—by the dozen $1.50, by the 100 $11.50. Will sell Hughes' cider crab, per 50 $4.00; per 100 $7.00; per 1000 $60.00.

Concord grapes, first class, 1 year vines 10 cents each; per dozen $1.00; per 100 5 dollars; per 1000 35 dollars. Bearing vines each 25 cts, per dozen 2.50; per 100, 18 dollars.

All other stock about the same as I at spring.
